

Teaching Assistant in E-Learning Project

Description: Application is invited for a position of Teaching Assistant in an E-Learning Project in Engineering Mathematics. The goal of the project is to develop a MOOC (Massive Open Online Course) in Calculus and Differential Equations for first year undergraduates. The successful candidate should preferably hold a bachelor degree in engineering or mathematics. The job duties will involve designing, implementing and monitoring this MOOC. Previous experience in computational software will be an advantage. The initial appointment will be a one-year contract but may be renewed depending on performance and funding. We hope that the successful candidate can report to duty starting July 2018.

Application Form: Please send a cover letter and a CV to Professor K. W. Chow for consideration.
